BUSINESS CENSUS HIGHLY IMPORTANT

The business census which is just being completed in this city and county and all parts of the United States, and which unwarrantedly, aroused a great deal of resentment, really will prove of great value in many ways.

It is human to object to snoopers prying into our affairs, but the objective of this movement is nothing along that line, but rather a desire to accumulate data that can be advantageously used in community upbuilding. The information furnished the government is not subject to scrutiny, but is held inviolate as far as the individual's or firm's business is concerned.

In the past few days Richmond has had the pleasure of personal contact with one of the men, George E. Sheldon, supervisor of the 8th California district, who is directing the drive and his talks before service clubs and conversations with men personally have served to eliminate any antagonistic feeling that might have heretofore existed.

More important than the population census in the estimation of many is the business census. While it is important, or anyway that is the general feeling about it, that we should make the best possible showing in point of population, the record of our business gains and our industrial progress during the past two years, it is not to be disputed, will leave an emphatic impression on the particular types and groups of people throughout the country that we are interested in reaching.

The big manufacturing concern, for instance that is planning to establish a West Coast factory, the capitalist large or small, looking for a fertile field of investment; the enterprising citizen wishing to enlarge his opportunities and to cast his lot with a growing com-

McCord New Trial Appeal Hearing Date Is Fixed

Thomas M. Carlson, who with his partner, Robert V. Collins, and Ralph Wright of Martinez, were the attorneys for Mrs. Ruth McCord, ex-social director was notified yesterday that the Appellate court will conduct a hearing in San Francisco, Monday, June 8, at 10 o'clock on an appeal by District Attorney Francis P. Healey from a decision of Superior Judge A. F. Bray granting Mrs. McCord a new trial.

The former bureau director was convicted by a jury on March 8 of submitting a false claim to the county for $68. Missing for eleven months and sought on a grand jury indictment, Mrs. McCord was located in Salt Lake City by Sheriff John A. Miller and returned for trial.

Upon her conviction, Carlson, Wright and Collins, her attorneys, contended that the claim was not illegal because it was drawn upon a fund from which payment could not be legally made.

The claim covered transportation for Mrs. Ida Jackson, an aged Richmond woman, to Colorado and was for "cash advanced" and paid from a fund the attorneys contended was limited to "services and supplies." Their motion for a new trial was granted by Judge Bray.

It was stated in the trial that the money was not applied to transportation and that it reimbursed Mrs. McCord for funds she lost in seeking to dispose of jewels for Mrs. Jackson.

Mrs. McCord, held in jail all during her trial, deposited bail of $1,000 for her release after the jury's verdict.

Healey will be joined by the attorney general in his plea to the appellate court to set aside the new trial grant.

DEATH OF S. F. MAN IS INVESTIGATED

BODY FOUND IN HARBOR IDENTIFIED

Contra Costa and San Francisco authorities yesterday were investigating the strange death of Timothy Murnane, 66, of 1170 McAllister street, San Francisco, whose body was recovered from the waters of the inner harbor shortly before 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

Death, according to coroner's officers was due to asphyxiation. It is believed that Murnane died of fright when he fell, or was pushed, into the waters of San Francisco bay.

VIOLENCE THEORY PROBED
Although no marks of violence were found on his body, a further examination of the remains will be made at the Wilson and Kratzer chapel in order to check any possible indications of a violent death.

The investigation was ordered after it was learned that Murnane had drawn $700 from a San Francisco bank two days before he disappeared.

RETIRED MOTORMAN
Murnane, who was a retired San Francisco Municipal Railway motorman had been ill for several months and had been out of the hospital for two months. On May 8 he drew $700 from a San Francisco bank. He was last seen on (Continued on page 5)

Italian Conquests Approved By Votes

ROME, May 16.—UP—The Italian Senate tonight put its formal rubber stamp of approval on decrees annexing Ethiopia to Italy, as Premier Benito Mussolini turned his attention to the troubled affairs of European neighbors, particularly Austria.

The Senate's vote was unanimous. Italy now has gone through all the parliamentary formalities, for its own satisfaction, of sealing its conquest of Ethiopia. The Chamber of Deputies approved the decrees last Thursday. King Victor Emmanuel will sign them tomorrow. According to the decrees, Italy now has taken the conquered Ethiopia under its own "full and complete sovereignty." With the addition of this new African empire to its lands, Italy's king assumes the titles of "King of Italy, Emperor of Ethiopia."

BADOLIO IS PROMOTED
Marshal Pietro Badoglio, who led Italy's armies to victory, has been created governor general and viceroy of Ethiopia. Mussolini personally presented

Widow Asks For New Death Probe

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—UP—Mrs. Robert Goldenberg, Los Angeles, widow of "Bob Goldie," night club figure, pressed today for a reopening of an investigation into his death here several months ago.

The Goldenberg case was closed when police decided the former night club operator died of natural causes.

His widow insists he died of injuries received in an assault and she asked Attorney Charles Brennan to have the inquiry re-opened.

SUPPORT OF FAMED PACT REAFFIRMED

WASHINGTON, May 16.—UP—American opposition to Japan's movement of more troops into North China was implied tonight in an informal statement by Undersecretary of State William Phillips.

In issuing a former announcement by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Phillips reaffirmed America's support of the nine-power treaty of 1911 guaranteeing China's territorial integrity.

STATEMENT GIVEN
In a communique last December 5 regarding conditions in China said:
"The United States adheres to the fundamental principles of its traditional policy. This government adheres to the provisions of the treaties solemnly entered into for the purpose of facilitating and regulating, to reciprocal and common advantage, the commerce between and among the countries signatory."

NO PROTEST PLANNED
State Department officials, questioned after Phillips' statement, said that the American government for the moment planned no diplomatic protest as a result of Japan's movement of 7,600 new troops into North China; hence what Phillips said was regarded as an affirmation of moral principle rather than (Continued on page 8)

Sunday Will Be Warmer In East Bay Area

It was warm in Richmond yesterday, but according to the weather man, "you ain't seen nudding yet."

Warmer temperatures have been predicted for the bay area for Sunday, unless a fog or a gentle breeze from the bay creeps in and sends the mercury downward.

An official temperature reading of 83 degrees was reported at the Standard Oil Tank Farm at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. However the mercury reached the 85 mark at that hour in downtown Richmond.

Crippled Ship Arrives In Port At Ketchikan

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, May 16.—UP—The crippled steamer North Sea unloaded freight here today after arriving in port under slow bell. The vessel crashed into the rocks at Marsh Point 55 miles north of here Thursday during a heavy fog. All passengers were immediately taken off the ship but later were returned.

Passengers declared there was no panic following the crashing of the vessel. Perfect discipline prevailed. Most of the passengers were asleep when the North Sea hit. They praised cooperation of the Coast Guard service and cannery tenders who aided in assisting them.

Officers said there might have been a major sea catastrophe had the weather been rough. There was little wind and the water was smooth, making it easy for Coast Guardmen to pick up passengers from the North Sea's life boats.

MORE POLICEMEN MAY BE "FIRED" IN GRAFT PROBE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—UP—Twelve stars which once adorned the natty blue uniforms of an even dozen of San Francisco's "finest" were pinned to a board in the property room of police headquarters today as evidences of an upheaval in what San Franciscans fondly believed was the "best police force in the land."

Eight of the stars were received from officers who refused to testify at sessions of a grand jury investigation into sources and sizes of police incomes. Four others came from a quartet of patrolmen indicted in charges arising from the burglary of a chain drug store owned by Dr. Thomas Schumate of the police commissary.

CALL NEW WITNESSES
There was room on the board for other stars, and it was likely additions soon will be made, as the grand jury arranged for calling new witnesses, while police capitulations against duty and plain private protested the "illegal invasion" of their personal business and private rights.

Some of San Francisco's leading attorneys—John Taaffe who helped Constable Gavin win a $1,000,000 from the Flood estate, J. H. Ehrlich, and the McKenzie brothers, Harry and Edwin—appeared as counsel for the harassed policemen and indicated they would fight to the highest courts in the country to protect their clients.

RESUMES ON MONDAY
The attorneys challenged the right of the grand jury to question the patrolmen about personal matters, to question them about things which happened more than three years ago, to cite them for contempt and right of the police commission to suspend them.

The inquiry resumes Monday with new witnesses scheduled and new refusals to testify expected.

Only 3 Felons Now At Large In Jail Break

McALLISTER, Okla., May 16.—UP—Death was a distinct possibility tonight for three fugitive convicts from the state prison here whether they choose to surrender or elect to fight it out when cornered.

Poses are under orders to "shoot to kill" if the slightest resistance is offered, and if the men are taken alive they face trial on murder and kidnapping charges with the death penalty demanded.

Of the eight who were successful in their initial bid for freedom Wednesday, five have been caught. Jess Cunningham, a convict murderer, Claude Fugate were caught today. Cunningham had been wounded by guards as he broke from the prison brickyard with 23 other convicts.

Last night Claude Push, his hands held high and begging for mercy, surrendered. Two others, felons were caught earlier.

Two Arrested In Fight On Street

Two men were arrested by local police last night, charged with disturbing the peace following a street fight on Macdonald avenue.

The two men are Richard Smith, 125 Contra Costa avenue and Ralph Allender, 935 South Ninth street.

The men allegedly engaged in a brawl on Macdonald avenue between Twelfth and Thirteenth street. They were arrested by a local officer who saw the battle start.

DICTATOR TO BE OPPOSED BY "ARMY"

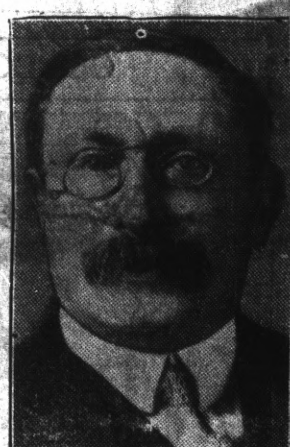

VIENNA, May 16.—UP—The Austrian Heimwehr has decided to follow a program of "legal opposition" to the dictatorship of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, it was reliably reported tonight following a meeting of Heimwehr leaders.

The decision followed a lengthy meeting, presided over by Eduard Baar von Baarenfels, who is vice chancellor of Austria, minister of interior, and commander of the militia. Schuschnigg's most important collaborator.

ALLEGIANCE PLEDGED
The Heimwehr leaders also telegraphed their former chief, Erich Fritsch, who is in Rome, pledging allegiance to the organization to his command. The telegram was regarded as an indication that the Heimwehr would disarm only at Starheimberg's command, despite demands for its disarmament by Schuschnigg.

Von Baarenfels' prominent part in the Heimwehr meeting created a strange situation in the Austrian government. His importance in the present regime indicated either that continued friction may disrupt the (Continued on page 8)

Three Killed As Fire Hits Detroit Park

EAST DETROIT, May 16.—UP—Three bodies were recovered from the smoldering ruins of "Jungleville" in Eastwood Amusement park tonight.

Firemen, successful in extinguishing the fire, were unable to identify the victims immediately but said the bodies were those of two men and a woman.

Park officials who estimated damage to the huge frame structure at $10,000 believed the blaze was started by a match or cigarette. More than 5,000 people were in the flimsy building when the fire started.

The departure of the huge airship on its second flight across the Atlantic was scheduled for last night but was postponed because of unfavorable winds.

Stanford, Troy
Battle To Tie
In Fresno Meet

FRESNO, May 16.—UP.—University of Southern California runners smashed two world records tonight in tying with Stanford for the team trophy of the Ninth Annual West Coast relays here.

The Trojan runners set up new marks in the one mile relay, a four lap event for four runners and in the 440-yard four-man sprint relays.

A quartette that presented Jim Cassin and Harold Smallwood, American Olympic middle distance candidates, Estell Johnson and Al Fitch raced around the fast college track in three minutes, 11.4 seconds in the mile event bettering by a full second the mark of 3 minutes, 12.5 seconds set here by another Trojan team several years ago.

The Trojan victory in the mile relay gave Dean Cromwell's men a tie with Stanford at 64 points each in the team competition. California was third with 25, UCLA fourth with 17 and Fresno fifth with 15.

CARDINALS AND GIANTS LEAD IN NATIONAL

NEW YORK, May 16.—UP.—The St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants continued to set the pace in the National League today, the Cardinals scoring a 7-5 victory over the Boston Bees to remain a half game ahead of the Giants, who extended their winning streak to six straight by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 4-3.

A double by Mize, singles by Gelbert and Durocher and a wild throw by Blanche, gave the Cardinals the two winning runs in the fifth, while Ed Heusser held the Bees to two hits for the last five innings after Paul Dean was shelved from the mound in the fourth.

Gus Mancuso, with two doubles and a single, led the Giants' 12-hit attack off Lyons, who went the route for the Reds. After walking pinch-hitter Campbell in the ninth and pitching two balls to Goodman, another pinch-hitter, Harry Gumbert, who was touched for all the Reds' hits, was replaced by Hubbell who struck out Cuyler and forced Byrd to pop to Bartell.

Paul Cavarretta's home run with the bases loaded in the eighth inning, gave the Chicago Cubs a 7-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and broke the Cubs' six-game losing streak.

The Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-0 behind the eight-hit pitching of Watson Clark.

The league-leading New York Yankees picked up a full game on the second place Boston Red Sox in the American League standings as they scored an 8-2 victory over the Red Sox.

Led by Myril Hoag and George Selkirk, who hit home runs, the New York Yankees piled up a total of 13 hits off Ted Lyons, including a triple and two doubles. Every man but rookie Joe Di Maggio, hit safely.

The Cleveland Indians came from behind to drive their former teammate, Wesley Ferrell from the mound and swamp the Boston Red Sox, 10-3. Tronky and Gleason hit home runs to lead the Indians' 18-hit attack.

The Washington Senators defeated the St. Louis Browns, 4-1, to sweep the two-game series. Jimmy DeShong went the route for the Senators.

Vic Sorrell ended the Detroit Tigers' losing streak at three straight when he pitched the Tigers to a 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

100 Yard Dash
Record Broken
By Jesse Owens

MADISON, Wis., May 16.—UP.—Jesse Owens, Ohio State University's Negro speedster, slipped one-tenth of a second off the world record for the 100-yard dash today, but a strong wind at his back made it appear certain that the mark will not be recognized officially.

Timers at the Wisconsin-Ohio State dual track meet credited Owens with running the race in 9.3 seconds, one-tenth of a second faster than the world mark which he holds jointly with others.

The board met in Tehachapi women's prison yesterday and held a routine business session there today with Warden Court Smith of San Quentin attending.

The term of Louise Todd, convicted in San Francisco on charges of falsifying election returns, was set at three years.

Parole After Prison Term

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, May 16.—UP.—Roy H. Fish, 49, convicted in Los Angeles four years ago in connection with the $100,000,000 American Mortgage Company Company fraud case, was released on a five-year parole by the State Parole Board. It was announced today.

The board denied a parole to his brother, Frank Fish, who must serve six more years.

The parole board on January 29 of this year re-fixed the sentences of the Los Angeles men, reducing Roy's by 10 years and Frank's by nine years. This ruling made Roy eligible for parole this year.

Roy Fish, who with his brother, Frank, built up and lost a corporation valued at millions of dollars, was said to have been a good prisoner. In prison he served as chief office assistant to the prison physician. Frank is a clerk in the office of the captain of the yard.

BOLD VENTURE IS WINNER OF
BIG HANDICAP

BALTIMORE, Md., May 16.—UP.—Morton L. Schwartz' Bold Venture, Kentucky, Delray winner, today captured the 14th running of the Pimlico Preknex in a finish so close that photographs of the horses crossing the wire had to first be developed before determining the winner.

Delair stud's Granville, son of Gallant Fox finished second followed by Walter M. Jeffords' Jean Bart.

Bold Venture, piloted by George Woolf, covered the mile and three sixteenths in 1:59 to whip Granville by a nose.

Transporter, owned by Mrs. M. Du Pont Somerville, was fourth. Bold Venture, in becoming the fifth horse in history to win both the Derby and Preknex, came up in the final stages of the race to whip the son of the 1930 winner.

The "bold one" rated smartly off the pace, pulled up so close in the stretch and then turned on the heat to go over the wire in front.

Bold Venture paid $5.70 to win in the matinee; $3.00 to place and $2.80 to show.

Granville rewarded its place backers at $3.60 and $3.00 to show. Jean Bart paid $7.00 for show.

E. R. Bradley's Bow and Arrow got off first and led at the quarter mile post. Granville was second and ridden by Jimmy Stout, moved into the front at the half-mile pole.

Jockey George Woolf, holding Bold Venture back the same as Ira Hanford did in the Kentucky Derby, finally let the big chestnut colt have its head moving into the stretch. And when Bold Venture started to move, Granville was unable to meet the Schwartz colt's bid for the lead.

TOWNSENDITES ARE BEATEN IN OREGON BALLOT

PORTLAND, Ore., May 16.—UP.—Oregon's strong Townsend organization, taught by Friday's primary the folly of putting political eggs in more than one basket, sought unity tonight to salvage what national offices it may from the November general election.

A contributing factor in the $200-a-month pension organization's defeat in attempting primary eliminations of a senator and two of Oregon's three congressmen, was the dual Townsend slates in the field for each nomination.

FRIENDS ARE LOST

The pension group lost many sympathizers, also, by several weeks of factional skirmishing among State and local leaders. Despite this, Townsends showed strength in some cases.

Charles L. McNary, for 19 years Oregon's Republican Senator at Washington, scored the outstanding victory of the election. He polled almost twice as many votes as his opponents, Townsends Sam Brown and Theodore G. Nelson, combined.

McNary's opponent in November will be Willis S. Mahoney, fiery mayor of Klamath Falls, exponent of public ownership and biter of utilities. Mahoney pledged himself to Townsend, but did not receive the endorsement of the State assembly (later invalidated by national headquarters), which went to John A. Jeffrey. Portland Mahoney led Jeffrey by about 6,000 votes with the count nearing completion.

TEST IS SEEN

Congressman James Mott of the first district, unopposed for the Republican renomination and a Townsend endorsee, will battle E. W. Kirkpatrick, Clatsop county's bitter foe of Townsendism, in the general election. Kirkpatrick was the only contender for national office who really made a campaign against Townsendism. This race may turn out to be a real test of the pension group's strength.

Merriam Recall Vote Is Seen For November

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—Reports that a scheme is now on foot to force a recall election against Governor Merriam at the same time as the November presidential ballot were dismissed here today.

Members of the movement to recall the governor claim they have signatures of 112,000 persons on their petitions while approximately 280,000 voters' signatures are needed to qualify a recall petition for the calling of a special election.

According to the reports, the petitioners will "start" on circulation of the petition as early as the latest time for the holding of the November recall, should the petitions qualify, would be on the same day in November that a president is selected. By this plan a party matter would be made of the recall since Governor Merriam is a Republican.

Much mystery surrounds the organization seeking the recall. Headquarters have been opened here with D. Monahan, former state director of agriculture, in charge. Monahan was ousted by the late Governor Rolph and now says he was registered as a Democrat.

James H. Hollingsworth is chairman of the Merriam recall committee in Los Angeles.

Reform School Inmates Guests Of Mrs. F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—UP.—Fifty-two inmates of the National Training School Reformatory were entertained at a White House garden party today in probably the strangest social function ever held on the broad expanse of the beautifully landscaped lawn that fronts the presidential mansion.

Mrs. Roosevelt, with characteristic determination and disregard for precedent, decided to entertain the prisoners at the White House, after she had visited their institution and discovered living conditions which she described as "inadequate and barbarous."

She was prepared today to show them one afternoon of real luxury and pleasure. She met them at the south portico of the White House, shook hands with each girl individually, and then directed them to the gay red and white striped marquees for lemonades, ice cream and cake.

LAWYERS ASK HIGHEST COURT TO SAVE PAIR

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—UP.—Attorneys for Alexander Mackay and Joe Kristy, San Quentin convicts condemned to die May 22, set the stage for a last minute fight to save them today by asking the State Supreme Court again to intervene.

Undunted by the court's previous refusals to interfere with the judgment of a Marin county jury, Attorneys Melvin Bell and Harding McGuire argued in their new appeal that five of the jurors now have changed their minds and are recommending life imprisonment.

The petition was presented at a time most of the justices of the court were out of town. It may be considered Monday.

Twice before reprieves and appeals have saved Mackay, a British subject and Kristy, a former Cleveland youth, from hanging for their part in the kidnaping of member of the state parole board in an attempt to break prison 16 months ago. The British government through consular authorities has urged imprisonment on the grounds that was too severe a punishment for crime in which the only life taken was that of Rudolph Straight, one of the convicts killed by a post which captured Kristy and Mackay.

"TILL WE MEET AGAIN", IS ON DOUBLE BILL

The love adventures of Kay Brannon, who married a man she had only known an hour, are pictured in "Small Town Girl" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's best selling novel which is at the Fox theater today. Hertzert Marshall's new starring production, "Till We Meet Again," shares the bill.

Robert Taylor and Janet Gaynor play the leads in "Small Town Girl." A strong supporting cast is headed by Binnie Barnes and Lewis Stone. Includes such names as Andy Devine, Isobel Jewell, Frank Craven, James Stewart and Edgar Kennedy.

In the picture Miss Gaynor is said to reveal the talent and wisdom of "Seventh Heaven" and the rugged dramatic emotionalism that characterized her portrayal in "The Farmer Takes a Wife." Taylor, it is asserted, takes one more step forward in the realization of the prediction that he is the screen's foremost contender for romantic honors.

The story of "Till We Meet Again" is that of two lovers who are separated by the World War to meet again as enlisted members of their respective countries' espionage systems. Gertrude Michael shares honors with Herbert Marshall in the picture. Lionel Atwill and Rod La Rocque head the supporting cast.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, May 17.—G. Edgar Hoover has been quietly advised by an authority in a position to give orders, to "lay off" criticizing other federal detecting agencies.

Hoover's recent crack that the Postal Inspection Service had given him no aid in capturing kidnappers, stirred up a hornet's nest of indignation behind the scenes—including the CalNet. Not only is the Postal Inspection Service one of the oldest and most efficient police forces in the government, but postal agents actually were responsible for J. Edgar's capture of Alvin Karpis.

G-Men had hunted fruitlessly for the gunman for months. Then, several months ago, a train was held up and robbed at Garrettsville, Ohio. Postal inspectors were called in and a few days later picked up the trail of Karpis, who had led the band of robbers.

Working on the theory that the members of his gang would get in touch with him sooner or later, the postal agents did not arrest Karpis but kept him under scrutiny as he traveled across country to New Orleans. There he was joined by a henchman and a woman, later captured with Karpis.

When the time came to "make the sack" postal agents called in the G-men, told them where Karpis could be found and allowed them to close in. The reason they did so was that the penalty for mail robbery is 20 years, whereas kidnapping even if no injury is done to the victim, carries a maximum of 60 years imprisonment.

So that the more serious charges might be lodged against the outlaw, the postal inspectors quietly stepped aside and permitted Hoover's men to make the arrest—and get the glory.

Most Republican leaders still cling to June 5, a Friday, as the day of Congress adjournment. Their convention opens in Cleveland the following Tuesday, June 9.

Democratic leaders lack Republican optimism. They think Congress might drag on till June 15 or 20. Their convention opens in Philadelphia June 23.

As Justice McReynolds was about to enter his suite of offices in the new Supreme Court building, he noticed that a set of numerals—128A—had been placed on his door.

The Tennessee, noted for his hair-trigger temper, glared at the figures for a few moments, then beckoned to a nearby guard.

"What's that for?" he demanded. "They are your room number, Sir."

"I know that. What's the 'A' for?" "That's the serial letter, Sir. That is what the plans call for. Each office has a serial number."

"Have it taken off—at once. I do not want any of this damned alpha-beta stuff around me!"

When the Pan-American Peace Conference first was proposed, it had some earmarks of a political move to aid Roosevelt's re-election. But at that time the League had not failed in Abyssinia.

With the League's failure, emphasis on the Pan-American Conference has increased 100 per cent. League prestige in South America is at its lowest ebb; Pan-Americanism is riding high.

That is the reason for the chance of conference date from July to November. It means Roosevelt wants to make proposals which might be risky if made during the campaign. In other words, there is a definite chance of a united American front against the World War.

Joseph Daniels, ex-Secretary of the Navy, has been one of the best ambassadors the United States ever sent to Mexico, but he is getting bored. That is F. H. the recent rumor that he might run for the Senate from North Carolina.

Actually Joseph considered the step very seriously, was on the verge of plunging into the senatorial race. But his sons were opposed. Finally the question was threshed out in a family council.

The Daniels boys argued that their father might lose the race for the Senate, but that as Ambassador, he held not only a very important post, but a definite one.

"What do you want to be Senator for, Father?" one of them concluded. "When can you be Ambassador?" Mr. Daniels hesitated.

"I know," interrupted a close friend who was present. "He can raise more hell as Senator than he can as Ambassador."

"Yes, I guess that's it," chuckled the Ambassador. "Why, you know, if I deliver that old graduation address in Mexico that I gave out at

NEW YORK, May 16.—Rapidly the hotels are tearing the lid off their food garden restaurants. . . . The St. Moritz Sky Gardens, with the breath-taking view of Central Park, is also open for business. . . . At the Hotel McAlpin's roof garden Enoch Light, veteran of many seasons, presides over the melodious dance strains. And in a couple of weeks, Rudy Vallee and his perennial Connecticut Yankees will adorn the Hotel Astor's roof garden, refurbished at a $50,000 expense. . . . HOLLYWOOD, May 16.—UP—Gracie Allen may have been joking when she proposed a housewives guild to keep husbands at home nights, but eight women in Southgate, a Los Angeles suburb, rallied in the idea and organized their own Housewives' club, naming Gracie as president ex-officio.

"Fridge has pulled on us as an evening entertainment, and we thought your Housewives' Union might be more fun," wrote Mrs.

L. J. Hickman, president in notifying Gracie of the election. "Have you any suggestions?"

Back came Gracie's rules and regulations for the Union of Wives. Wives mustn't let their husbands have any private life, was Gracie's first stipulation. That's so they won't have to keep track of it. She also suggested immediate mastery of archery—to allow shooting of husbands without disturbing the neighbors or waking up the baby. The other rules included:

"When your husband calls you his wife, give him the password, say 'Mister wife, to you.' The password must be kept a secret just don't tell it to anybody except women you can trust—and tell them to do the same.

"No wife can hold home than one Union membership—unless she's supporting more than one husband.

"Even if you didn't have a first husband, always keep telling your husband what a swell guy he was. Why let him get a swelled head?

"Wives should never hit or kick their husbands first—unless their duds are paid. On the other hand a wife must never allow her husband to strike the last blow. That would spoil him and the only sensible way to spoil a husband is with a rolling pin.

"Rule your husband with an iron hand. When he asks if he can go out, tell him 'no.' If he says he's going out anyway, stand your ground and say, 'Well, maybe.' If he actually goes out, say firmly, 'Ah, right, just this once.' After all, he should go out if you want him to."

CRIMSON WARNING

By RICHARD SALE

Jane Hall, girl detective, is summoned to the home of Emory Harding on Skeleton Island, off the coast of Maine, to guard his daughter Audrey, whose life has been threatened in a letter, overwritten in red, demanding that Harding relinquish a valuable ruby he bought from an old sea captain, Albert Santry. He is sent for Bruce Kirby, young museum curator. That night, Santry is murdered—poisoned by a deadly snake's venom injected with a hypodermic needle. Then a servant is killed. A little later, Harding himself is attacked in the same manner as Santry. He is treated with an antidote, but his chances are slim. Meanwhile, one of the numerous house rusts, Robert Castellan, who is under suspicion has apparently fled from the island in a speedboat. Kirby sends Fred Benet, a visitor, in pursuit, then takes up a vigil at Harding's bedside. About 2 a. m., he hears some one in the hall.

one outside the door, although he had heard no footsteps. He got up from his chair and tiptoed across the room. He halted at one side of the door and waited. Presently, he saw the knob of the door slowly turn without sound. It reached the end of its arc. The locked door was then carefully opened. Kirby could tell that by the slight click of the lock. Then the attempt to open the door having proved futile, the knob was slowly returned to its original position. Instantly, Kirby bent forward, turned the key, and flung the door open. The would-be intruder gasped. "What do you want?" Kirby demanded acidly. "Mon Dieu!" whispered the Frenchman. "How you have frightened me!" "What do you want?" Kirby repeated. "I wanted to see how Emory was," the replied. "Is his ankle better?" "That's a poor excuse for wandering around the house at two in the morning," said Kirby dryly. "Mr. Harding is asleep. I'd advise you to get back in your room and stay there. It isn't healthy to be prowling around after what has happened tonight."

"Pardon me?" She whipped away from him.

KIRBY slammed the door shut and locked it again. He glanced at his watch. Two-fifteen. Time to take Harding's pulse. He did so. He was amazed to find the pulse count up to seventy. Just about normal. And there was color now in Harding's face. Kirby bent over him. Harding was no longer unconscious from the lethargy which the venom had caused. He was asleep.

Kirby plumped back into his chair with a sigh of relief. He thought briefly that he ought to call Dr. Straeter, but decided against it. He would call Straeter at three o'clock, when Bithersee came to relieve him.

Harding was on the road to recovery. With this thought, Kirby relaxed. Involuntarily, he fell into a doze.

Then, suddenly, his eyes started open at a movement in the bed. Harding's feet were pushing at the covers as he struggled to rise. "Emory!" exclaimed Kirby. He leaped up and leaned over the bed. Harding's eyes opened, wandered around the room, and settled on Kirby. He opened his lips, tried to speak but only succeeded in whispering faintly, "Bruce."

Kirby smiled and wagged a reproachful finger at him. "You mustn't talk now Emory. Take it easy. You'll need every bit of strength for recovery. Harding shook his head weakly. His eyes glazed.

"Go to sleep," said Kirby. "At that instant there was the sudden sound of splintered glass, and simultaneously Kirby felt a sharp searing sensation across his temple. The room seemed to reel and with sudden blurred eyes, he vaguely saw Harding twitch spasmodically.

He felt himself swimming down, down into a bottomless abyss, where there was no light, no sound, no pain—just a sensation of nothingness . . . nothingness. . . .

SHORTLY after two, he suddenly sensed the presence of some

Writers to Dr. Chrisman Often Reveal Complicated Conditions

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

LETTERS frequently come in which the writer goes into great detail about the way he feels and acts. He endeavors to give all the information, but when I finish reading his description I am in a fog. One reason for this is that the writer's condition is so complicated, that definite advice is impossible. A West Virginia woman writes that she has been ill since her baby was born, three years ago. Her recovery was slow, but now she is nervous, dizzy and her general health is poor. While carrying her baby she came a lump and continued so for three or four weeks but gradually became normal again. (This brings up the thought that she may have had some kidney complication which gradually improved.)

When the baby was three months old an examination by a specialist disclosed that along with her extreme nervous condition her blood was poor in quality, hemoglobin 60. One ovary was inflamed and tender. He prescribed a general tonic, and this brought about some improvement in the blood picture and general strength. She did not continue treatment for lack of money.

Soon after this she began having trouble with her eyes. She noticed that when she was in a bright light her eyes would hurt and she would become dizzy with a great feeling of fullness in the eye balls and a sensation they would pop out.

Infection Suspected

Gradually the eyes commenced to itch and burn and become red, particularly around the lens. Finally in March, 1935, an eye specialist discovered a little inflammation and prescribed a tinted glass, which did not help. Later he used X-ray treatments with some benefit. But she still cannot use her eyes to read any length of time, without suffering itching and burning and redness followed by dizziness.

I do not think she has any eye trouble. That is probably due to a general run down system. She evidently has a low grade infection some place. It is possible that she had some pelvic inflammation after her baby was born from which she has never recovered.

Treatment by a physician of the local pelvic condition would probably do much good, but I judge that lack of money may prevent this method. There might be a clinic where it could be done and it should be kept up for several months. If this cannot be done, some good can be accomplished by the use of hot water douches.

Use two quarts of hot water in which 3 or 4 tablespoons of epsom salts have been dissolved. These should be taken, lying down, two or three times a day. The urine should be examined to determine the condition of the kidneys.

General tonic treatment is indicated to build up the resistance so that nature can overcome whatever infection may be present.

Two teaspoonsful of elixir of iron, quinine and strychnin in a glass of water before each meal will stimulate the appetite, improve digestion, and build up the blood. Cod liver oil will improve the general health. Giving the eyes a bath in a warm boric acid solution 2 or 3 times a day, using an eye cup, will help to keep down the inflammation.

Dr. Chrisman invites inquiries and correspondence from readers. Address him in care of this newspaper.

Short Cuts

The round knitting needle has many advantages. For one thing, it is possible to make a seamless sweater with it. Also, hats, skirts and socks.

One of the advantages of a linoleum covered bathroom floor over tile covering is that it is warmer to the touch of bare feet. Also it is less slippery when wet.

Nut bread is a time-and-thought saver for making sandwiches. It needs simple treatment. A plain cream cheese filling is delicious and complete between two thin slices of nut bread.

Munquats have an aromatic flavor that blends well with tea. They may be served in place of lemon.

By using dried prunes, raisins, figs, peaches and apricots, preserves may be made the year round.

The chance that food will stick to the bottom and sides of an oven dish is lessened when the dish is well greased beforehand.

Mrs. Greenway Is Leaving Congress

By TALBOT LAKE

MRS. ISABELLA GREENWAY, widow, bridesmaid of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and representative from Arizona, has decided not to stand for reelection, because she has "family activities" which make demands on her time.

Mrs. Greenway operates ranches in Arizona and New Mexico and a winter resort hotel at Tucson. She is identified with important mining interests.

Her father, Tilden R. Selmes, was once associated with Theodore Roosevelt in a ranching venture in North Dakota.

"I'm the head of my family and our interests are very scattered and right exacting," Mrs. Greenway explains. "It's just the matter of a family and a great many things I must give more time to."

Reminded that she had been mentioned as a candidate for Governor of Arizona, she declared that her announcement of retirement also was intended to stop further talk along that line.

"I don't intend to be a candidate for Governor," she said, adding, however, that there had been "quite a little pressure" to have her enter the governorship race.

"Just because I am leaving office does not mean that I am not looking forward to a continued active interest in national and state welfare," she continued.

"I don't believe any woman ever has been given anything that I appreciate as much as this—being the first woman ever to represent an entire state in Congress as representative at large."

"I'm proud, too, to have been allied with the courageous experiments of this administration, many of which I feel will be continued on their merits."

A childhood chum of Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Greenway has been a frequent visitor at the White House during her nearly two terms in the House.

She was elected in October, 1933, for the remainder of the term of Lewis Douglas, who resigned to become budget director. She was reelected in 1934.

Food as a Pleasure

Recently a movement has gotten under way to deal with food as a pleasure and an art, rather than just nourishment. The idea is worth the attention of all women who have to take care of families.

Travel Tests Beauty Aids Of Women

By JACQUELINE HUNT

THE woman who travels usually has a clever system by which she can manage to look fresh and smartly turned out for every occasion and still carry very little luggage. It is the experienced traveler who feels she must pack every beauty aid and costume that she has within reach.

Those who are contemplating a vacation and wonder what you should take can get some excellent beauty tips from the three women musicians included in the personnel of the Philadelphia Orchestra when it starts its transcontinental tour in April.

They will be on tour for six weeks, with a concert in a different city along the way every night. Needless to say, how to keep well-groomed and fresh is one of their big problems. Every night in spite of arduous hours of traveling and exposure to heat, dust and grime, these instrumentalists must look attractive. And they must attend to all the details of their toilette in the cramped quarters of a Pullman compartment.

Edna Phillips, harpist, has a smooth olive skin that tends to oiliness. She does not use cream, even for cleansing, so she is taking along her favorite lotion, which serves both as cleanser and skin freshener. Since a large bottle would be hard to pack, she is taking several small bottles and is tucking them into the corners of her two suitcases.

For her hands, she finds that the cheapest and most effective skin softener which takes up no room at all, is a stick of camphor ice. This is rubbed into the hands before retiring and even worked into the cuticles. It also keeps her lips smooth and soft in hot, dry climates.

Hilger, cellist, is plump, blonde and rosy-cheeked. All that she is taking—aside from her powder, rouge and mascara—is a large tin of theatrical cold cream. It is inexpensive, she finds, and she uses it both as a cleanser and skin-softener for face and hands. Her beauty kit also includes lots of cleansing tissues.

She feels that washing the eyes frequently with a warm boric acid solution is a wise beauty measure. When the eyes are strained and tired, the whole face looks drawn and unlovely. Therefore she carries boric acid solution with her and uses it frequently to keep her eyes bright and refreshed.

Marjorie Tyne, harpist, is an advocate of olive oil. She has covered that no matter where she goes, olive oil is always available. The porter can bring a cup of it from the dining car, or when stopping over in a hotel a cup can be ordered from the dining room. It is available in stores everywhere.

She uses it for cleansing and softening her face and hands at night. Then in the morning she washes thoroughly with very warm water and a toilet soap that lathers freely. This is followed by a rinse with the coldest water she can get. The result is a skin that is clear, fresh and smooth as a baby's.

All of these attractive women find that cleansing and freshening the face immediately before a concert tones up all the nerves of the body. All of them use a minimum of make-up, since they feel that the usual theatrical make-up tends to make them too conspicuous among the 111 male musicians in the orchestra.

And all three have purchased silk kerchiefs which they plan to use as a fashion around their heads while traveling. This will serve the double purpose of protecting their hair from dust and soot and preserving their wave sets.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "Is it possible to shrink large pores? I had a serious case of acne several years ago and although it has cleared up and my skin has a fairly good color, there are large pores that look almost like the pits left by chicken gas across my cheeks and at the sides of my nose. —G. A."

The blemishes must be scars left from the acne and you cannot hope to shrink or remove them in a short course of treatment.

The gradual growth and sloughing off of the outer layers of skin should eventually make the scars less noticeable.

You can hasten this process by massage with a cream that is suited to your skin. Use a good astringent and have a facial pack every two weeks.

Dishes for Today

Modern Cereals Differ From Old-Time Oatmeal

By JUDITH WILSON

WHEN you were small what did the word "cereal" mean to you? A steaming bowl of rather soggy oatmeal—or on rather rare occasions a bowl of corn or wheat flakes with milk?

Times have changed since then! We now have dozens of varieties of delicious packaged cereals ready to serve as they come and others that can be cooked in a fraction of the time that the old-fashioned cereals required. And these cereals do not limit themselves to the breakfast table! They go to parties as crunchy cookies, macaroons and sandwich breads.

DINNERS
Meat Balls with Tomato Sauce
Potato Patties
Green Peas
Raisin Bran Rolls
Rice Macaroons
Tea

Tomato-Avocado Salad
Celery Sticks
Baked Ham and Cheese
Fried Eggplant
Slicing Beans
Apricot Scallop with Whipped Cream

Quick-cooking oatmeal or many of the packaged cereals make convenient "extenders" for the meat or vegetable main dish. Here are recipes for the cereal dishes in today's menu:

Meat Balls
Mix 1 pound hamburger with 1 cup quick-cooking oatmeal, 1 onion, minced fine, salt, pepper and 1/4 cup cream. Shape into balls, brown quickly in hot fat, then place in a greased baking dish with 1 1/2 cups strained canned tomatoes. Bake in a moderate oven 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with the sauce.

Rice Macaroons
Beat the whites of 3 eggs until they are stiff but not too dry.

Apricot Scallop
Arrange 2 cups drained canned apricots in a shallow baking dish and add 1/2 cup apricot juice that has been mixed with 3 tablespoons lemon juice. Combine 3 cups corn flakes, 4 tablespoons sugar, tossing lightly to mix. Sprinkle over the apricots. Bake in a hot oven 10 minutes or until the topping is browned.

This Season Should Lift Lady's Spirit

By IRENE VAIL

New York—If this season's crop of spring attire does not do something for a woman's morale she's in a desperate state.

If you belong to the younger set and don't know what it is to be tucked into your jacket, you are about to learn. At the same time, you are about to experience the discomforts of a military trend which makes it necessary to bear politely with the man in the seat behind who says "Would you mind removing your hat?"

That's what comes of raising the hat line and permitting flowery and bows to rise above its level.

As if all this were not enough, up speaks England's new king in behalf of the forgotten ostrich and hopes that women will accept ostrich trimming. It will not only be when presented at court that smart women will wear three little ostrich tips but on less ceremonious occasions. And then we come to ruchings—not worn for many years.

It is not only the neck ruche but the high shoulder that symbolizes the trend. Then the dinner suit; it is black, with white long sleeves. I see dinner suits even in prints and high shoulders, and ruches are possible in everything from embroidered organdie to broadcloth.

They say that among the most approved prints are those not completely strewn with flowers or what have you, but those with widely spaced motifs. You recall that an applique of motifs cut from such prints is one of the season's best trimming details.

The Season for Draperies
This is the season when window draperies should be renewed. Perhaps this year the window scheme of the livingroom, at least, may be changed and old worn draperies retired.

MODERN WOMEN

Budget for Table Is the Only Answer to This Housewife

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

THE constant demands of children are enough to wear any mother down. Mother-love is of the give-until-it-hurts variety, to use an old war-time slogan. A mother must protect herself against these demands, not only for her own sake but for that of the family bank account, and last, but not least, the children themselves. A reader writes me this letter:

"Dear Mrs. Martin: I am a daily reader of your articles and get a great deal of good out of them. I have a serious problem. Could you help me solve it? I am a mother of three children, nineteen, sixteen and ten. I have a wonderful husband, I am anxious to please him."

"Will you please tell me if I am spending too much money? Sometimes it gives me to believe? Our income is $300 per month. We have a large house. I do all my own work. I get about $125 per month to run the house on—that is food, clothing for children and myself."

"It is difficult for me to make ends meet. The children want this and that and it makes me unhappy because I cannot get things for them. Please tell me what is wrong.—B. M. W."

Unless you install some sort of system I am afraid you are not going to have an easy time of it. It takes managing to feed five people well and maintain the standard of living your letter indicates. Many women, of course, who count themselves fortunate do it on less.

Next Ruth got into her slip. This was easy, as she just had to pull it over her head. But even so she managed somehow to get it on. Without noticing this, she selected a dress that buttoned in back. After slipping into it, she again called her mother.

"I can't button my dress." "You'll have to come in here this time," mother returned impatiently. "I can't keep running back and forth."

Ruth entered putting. In coming to her mother she felt she was putting herself out. Mother, on the other hand, was too busy approving the child's appearance to take notice of this. Her socks are twisted. Come here." And she yanked them up straight. Before buttoning the back of Ruth's dress, she ordered, "Turn around."

Then, "You slip's on inside out. Oh, dear, can't you do anything for yourself?" And with an imperative "Stand still!" the dress and slip came off and went on again right.

The mother need not have rushed to fasten the dress. She could have called back an encouraging "That's all right, Ruth. Leave them undone and go on dressing. They do not have to be fastened now. As for the twisted socks, a wise mother would have straightened them at the proper time without comment, and she would have ignored the inverted slip. This would have enabled the child to get some satisfaction from helping herself dress.

But as the matter stands she was made to feel that her part in dressing had been useless. No wonder Ruth has no interest in the manipulation of buckles and buttons in an effort to master

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "I am greatly interested in questions and answers in the Modes and Manners column. But so far I have not found exactly what I would like to know. In attending a formal dinner, should a man wear a tuxedo or tails?" —A. F."

ANSWER: Tails or full dress are worn on such important formal occasions as a fashionable evening wedding or at a highly formal dinner or ball or at the opera. For the average formal dinner, however, the well-dressed man wears a tuxedo. This type of dress for men is formal, yet not as formal as tails. We see it worn at the theater and in fashionable restaurants as well as at most dinners and evening parties.

QUESTION: "We have recently acquired a servant. My mother insists on treating her as a member of the family. She has even suggested letting her take her meals with us. I object, believing it best to keep the relationship on a strictly business basis. What do you think?" —Mrs. L. G."

ANSWER: Many persons fail to realize that one may be business-like and kind at the same time to persons in their employ. Where a servant is treated like a member of the family, complications are certain to arise. The family as well as the servant will be inclined to expect more from each other than the original bargain called for.

Under familiarity rests, pettiness arises and before long there will be a let down of self-control.

Don't Take Pills For Constipation

Ordinary pills taken to relieve constipation cause a violent movement of the bowels without making the liver discharge its excess bile. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills.

What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic that cleanses the system of all food secretions and so the bile flows freely to the bowels. It's a good liver tonic that cleanses the system of all food secretions and so the bile flows freely to the bowels.

a diplomatic threat.

Under the Boxer protocol of 1901, the signatory powers, including the United States and Japan, were allowed to maintain troops in Peking to protect their legations. Since that time America, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan have maintained a legion guard in the ancient Chinese capital.

NOTHING EFFECTIVE

The U. S. legion guard has consisted for years of a peace-time regiment of marines—about 500 men. Other nations have maintained forces of approximately the same size. Hence the entry of more than 7,000 Japanese troops into North China at a time when there is no abnormal disorder there was construed in official quarters here as a military invasion rather than a measure of protection.

But observers agree there is nothing effective the United States could do in response to Japan's movement unless willing to go to war.

community—these and many others with interest the issuance of the government census of American business. Indubitably it will mean much to Richmond and other industrial centers to have this record spread over the country at large and attention called to the progress we have made and the opportunities we offer.

The information gathered when assembled, "will be for business people only," and it is that class that we want to know what we have been doing and what can be done here. The census will furnish that very material.

It is hoped to have the data compiled and ready for publication early in July. Therefore it is in-essential that the utmost co-operation be extended to the census takers to the end that every business here will be accounted for. The responsibility falls on every citizen to co-operate in listing the schedules that are not already recorded.

After all we are offered an opportunity, without cost, to advertise ourselves, and if we do not avail ourselves of it, we are indeed very short-sighted.

U. S. F. Savant Feared Drowned; Search Started

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—UP—Search for Father Walter Semeris, 36, faculty member at the University of San Francisco who disappeared last night, continued today, with officials expressing the fear he had drowned near Ocean Beach.

Search for the missing priest, or his body, centered in the beach area when his clothes, glasses and prayer book were found near a pumping station. It was said doctors had ordered him to take a swim bath and he feared he entered the water to swim and was drowned.

Father Semeris was born in Philadelphia and was a graduate of the University of San Francisco. He entered the priesthood in 1915 and was ordained in 1918.

He was principal of St. Ignace high school at Los Angeles and later taught philosophy at Loyola University. He became a member of the University faculty at the university here about three years ago.

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, May 16.—UP—Jose Gonzales, 30, Filipino, convicted San Diego murderer, who attempted to escape from prison today, was returned to his solitary confinement cell by prison officials who said no disciplinary action would be taken because he already is condemned to be hanged.

Gonzales, believed to have gone "stir crazy," made his futile attempt to break his way from prison when being taken from his cell to the prison barber shop to be shaved.

He leaped on his guard, George Anderson, wrestled the guard's club from him and felled him with a crashing blow on the head.

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—Challenging the statement of the Federal Bureau of the Census that California's population is decreasing, California Taxpayers' Association today declared that it estimates indicate a gain of 675,000 persons in the state since 1930, instead of the loss of 37,000 claimed by the Federal government.

California, according to the estimates of the Taxpayers' Association had a population of approximately 6,350,000 in 1935, instead of 5,639,000 which the Census Bureau estimates.

DICTATOR TO BE OPPOSED BY "ARMY"

Schuschnig rule or that the final showdown between the Fascist elements and the Chancellor still is to come.

CABINET IS COOL

The Cabinet, however, on the surface took a cool and unruffled view of the Heimwehr decision. A Cabinet spokesman told the United Press "the Heimwehr message to Starhemberg is quite natural. It means that the Heimwehr greets the leader. It is not up to us to comment further thereon."

The Heimwehr's "legal opposition" undoubtedly means that it intends to avoid any show of force or armed resistance to the Schuschnig regime. It therefore would continue as a minority political party rather than as a private army. Schuschnig and other government leaders are firm in their demands that all private armies disarm and be united in one auxiliary semi-military organization, the Fatherland Front.

Schuschnig has taken over the Heimwehr leadership by assuming Starhemberg's former post of Fatherland Front commander-in-chief in command of the private armies in Austria.
